

Kelly Roberts

Food Service Director

Born in the vibrant city of Chicago but raised under the sunny skies of California, this Food Service Director has had quite the journey. Her high school and college years took her to Cincinnati, where she honed her skills and knowledge before heading south to Atlanta to kick off her career in the hospitality industry. Fast forward to South Florida, where she now combines her expertise with a flair for all things food and service. When she's not leading the charge in food service, you'll find her indulging in her love for food, perfecting her golf swing, or globe trotting to the next exciting destination. A self-proclaimed foodie, her passion for flavor and culture is matched only by her drive for excellence.

Favorite food memory? “

TODAY, I RECOMMEND

trying the Buddha Bowl Station. It's the perfect way to customize a meal that blends healthy options with your personal flavor preferences.

One year, I made holiday treats with my father and grandmother to give as gifts to family members. That experience made me realize how food can create joy and lasting memories, bringing people together with love and happiness.

What does hospitality mean to you?

Creating Memorable Experiences -it's about crafting experiences that leave lasting impressions on guests, whether it's through personalized service, a thoughtfully curated menu, or a welcoming atmosphere.
